

ABSTRACT

A method of fabricating a cartilage implant including embedding and growing chondrocytes or mesenchymal stem cells in a three-dimensional substrate. The substrate contains randomly rewound α -helical monomers of type I collagen.

5

20360602.doc

10627-004001